DETAILED ACTION

1. Acknowledgement is made of amendment filed 3/10/09. Upon entering the amendment, claims 1 and 6 are amended, claim 5 is canceled and claims 7-10 are new.
2. Claims 1-4 and 6-10 are pending and presented for examination.

Response to Amendment

3. In response to the amendment and the Applicants' remarks, the examiner modifies the grounds for rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 1-3 and 7-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hammon et al. (US 2004/0015012) (Hammon).

Hammon discloses a method for supplying reaction gases in a catalytic gas-phase oxidation reaction wherein an organic material to be oxidized and oxygen are mixed and supplied to a reactor, wherein the feed rate of the gases are adjusted to fall outside an explosive range when a composition of the gas changes from one point to another [0001-0002]. Additionally, the reference discloses the material to be oxidized as isobutylene, methacrolein (page 8, claims, claim 2) or t-butanol [0011] (claims 1, 7-9). The reference additionally discloses that the method for supplying the gases includes adjusting the feed rate of oxygen to direct it away from an explosive range [0039-0041], and that the feed rate of the material to be oxidized is adjusted to reach a composition point while outside of an explosion range [0035-0036] (claim 2). The reference additionally discloses that the feed rates of the reaction gases will be adjusted when certain composition points are reached to avoid an explosive range [0047-0052] (claims 3 and 10).

Art Unit: 1797

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hammon.

Hammon discloses that a computer is controlled by a characteristic explosion diagram [0146]. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to display the information on a monitor so that one operating the system would be aware of the reaction progress (claims 4 and 6).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-4 and 6-10 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
